MOTION FOR SUPPLEMENTAL BRIEFING

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Appellate Procedure 27 and 11th Circuit R. 27-1, NetChoice and CCIA respectfully ask the Court to order supplemental briefing in light of the Supreme Court's decision in Moody v. NetChoice, LLC, 144 S.Ct. 2383 (2024), remanding the case back to this Court. Florida opposes this motion and plans to file a response.

1. This case involves a constitutional challenge to Florida Senate Bill 7072, a law that overrides the choices of online services like Facebook and YouTube about what third-party content to disseminate and how. NetChoice and CCIA sued Florida in 2021 challenging the law on several grounds. The district court entered a preliminary injunction barring Florida from enforcing S.B. 7072's principal provisions, holding that (among other things) S.B. 7072 likely violates the First Amendment. See NetChoice, LLC v. Moody, 546 F.Supp.3d 1082 (N.D. Fla. 2021). This Court affirmed in substantial part, agreeing with the district court's conclusion that S.B. 7072's candidate, journalistic-enterprise, consistency, 30-day restriction, user opt-out, and detailed-explanation provisions likely violate the First Amendment. See NetChoice, LLC v. Attorney General, Fla., 34 F.4th 1196 (11th Cir. 2022). This Court then stayed the mandate pending Supreme Court review, with the result that the District Court's preliminary injunction remains in effect. Dkt.136.

2. The Supreme Court vacated the Court’s judgment in Moody, 144 S.Ct. at 2409, on the ground that this Court “did not properly consider the facial nature of NetChoice’s challenge.” Id. at 2394. The Supreme Court explained that both this Court and the Fifth Circuit<sup>1</sup> “mainly addressed what the parties had focused on” in their briefing and arguments below, i.e., the laws’ application to the “curated feeds offered by the largest and most paradigmatic social-media platforms”—such as Facebook and YouTube. Id. The Supreme Court stated that “the laws might apply to, and differently affect, other kinds of websites and apps.” Id. And in “a facial challenge, that could well matter,” because “the question in such a case is whether the law’s unconstitutional applications are substantial compared to its constitutional ones.” Id. The Court noted that “[m]aybe the parties treated the content-moderation choices reflected in Facebook’s News Feed and YouTube’s homepage as the laws’ heartland applications because they are the principal things regulated, and should have just that weight in the facial analysis. Or maybe not: Maybe the parties’ focus had all to do with litigation strategy, and there is a sphere of other applications—and constitutional ones—that would prevent the laws’ facial invalidation.” Id. at 2398. But because those questions were not the focus of the proceedings below, the

Supreme Court vacated this Court’s decision and remanded the case to this Court to consider those issues in the first instance.

3. The Supreme Court then went on to discuss how the First Amendment should apply to the services “that were the focus of the proceedings below.” Id. at 2403. In so doing, the Court largely agreed with this Court’s analysis of the First Amendment issues, while disagreeing with the Fifth Circuit’s. Id. The Court explained that, when applied “to prevent Facebook (or YouTube) from using its content-moderation standards to remove, alter, organize, prioritize, or disclaim posts in its News Feed (or homepage),” laws like S.B. 7072 “prevent[] exactly the kind of editorial judgments this Court has previously held to receive First Amendment protection.” Id. at 2394. That infringement of First Amendment rights cannot be justified on the ground that it is necessary “to balance the mix of speech on Facebook’s News Feed and similar platforms.” Id. After all, the “government may not, in supposed pursuit of better expressive balance, alter a private speaker’s own editorial choices about the mix of speech it wants to convey.” Id.

4. In light of the Supreme Court’s decision to remand to this Court, NetChoice and CCIA respectfully ask the Court to order supplemental briefing so that the parties can address the import of the Supreme Court’s decision, whether this Court can resolve the facial challenge on this record or whether a remand to the district court is necessary, and if so, whether the preliminary injunction should remain in effect pending any necessary further proceedings, and any other relevant issues. Indeed, the Supreme Court’s decision expressly contemplates additional proceedings in this Court to determine in the first instance whether S.B.7072 prohibits a substantial amount of protected speech relative to its plainly legitimate sweep. See id. at 3409 (“So on remand, each court must evaluate the full scope of the law’s coverage ...”).

5. NetChoice and CCIA propose that the parties submit simultaneous supplemental briefs of no more than 9,000 words within 30 days after the Court decides this motion, followed by simultaneous response briefs of no more than 4,500 words within 30 days after the initial supplemental briefs.

6. Florida opposes this motion and plans to file a response.

Respectfully submitted,
